

Principles of Re-establishment

Exercise 4

Original Intention vs. Occupation

Survey of the boundary between Crown allotments 1 and 2 reveals that the fencing is not a straight line as originally intended.

Question:

Where does the adopted boundary lie?

Answer:

In this case the preferred solution is to adopt a straight line between the end points as this was the original intention, however, there may be other solutions based on evidence found in the field. A surveyor must weigh up all options and base the final decision on sound professional judgement.
